There is considerable speculation about the effect of Mrs. McKinley's illness on society in Washington after her recovery and return. It is reported that two years ago Mr. McKinley was advised to let it be known that his wife was an invalid and could not discharge the duties of "first lady of the land." It is said that the president favored the idea and suggested it to Mrs. Mc-Kinley, but that she refused to entertain it for a moment and that she has since rigidly performed the duties of mistress of the White House at considerable personal sacrifice and injury to
